

Dionysus ~ God of Wine

Dionysus is the son of Zeus and the beautiful princess, Semele. He is known for his light-heartedness and always offers to help anyone in need. He is very popular among both gods and mortals alike, and many parties and festivals are held in his honor each year. He is one of the few gods who does not live on Mount Olympus, wandering the Earth instead with satyrs looking for the secrets of winemaking.

Dionysus is a good-looking young man with impressive golden hair who often wears a wreath of ivy on his head. He is married to Ariadne, the princess of Crete, and he has a number of famous children. His symbols include: the flute, wine barrels, and grapes.
